It would also, i suspect be able to change the properties of the Cutout itself without having to re-create it. I don't know if you can change the details of a copy of a cutout. I also don't know if you can create a Cutout that looks just like another one. It is really smart. So if you have a Cutout and you want to re-position it from one part of the scene to another, you can use the Cutout as a Proxy. Just move it to the new location. Copy it (Ctrl + C) and paste it (Ctrl + V). The new one will share all the settings with the original one and can be re-positioned. This is one of the applications that you really need. 20.822 Sites on Indian land may be removed and access to them blocked at any time under any of the following conditions: (1) A principal, in his or her sole discretion, determines that a site or activity is objectionable; (2) Access to a site is determined to be objectionable by a law enforcement official, or other government authority; (3) A court order or court of competent jurisdiction states that a site or activity is objectionable; or (4) An order is issued under subsection (4) of section 20.821. (b) Instruction to users. A principal shall provide to users of an electronic messaging application, upon request and when reasonably possible, the following instructions: (1) A user may request, in writing, information about the availability of a particular site from the principal; (2) Any user who is required to maintain a site on Indian land that he or she creates or where content is created shall maintain at his or her residence or place of business a computer or device that can access and maintain an electronic messaging application, and keep the application regularly up to date and maintain in that application the site's URL; and (3) Any user who is required to maintain a site on Indian land that he or she does not create shall maintain in the electronic messaging application the sites that he or she creates. (c) Status of sites on Indian land. Sites on Indian land for the use of electronic messaging applications that are created or maintained without authority shall not constitute valid, enforceable, binding, or binding and valid contracts
