I just started having problems again. After upgrading to 12.10 when I open chrome the page takes 5 minutes to load and I get this error: "An unexpected error occurred. Google Chrome can't find the page you requested". This started after i installed two new updates. However after rebooting everything is fine Does anyone know how I can get rid of this? hello, in the unity menu of ubuntu i can go to "Wine" to manage my wine, how can i do this in lubuntu? thomas_: if you are concerned about getting rid of malware or viruses, you can use "malwarebytes" jrib: I want to install linux thomas_: then there is no malware. Or viruses Hello thomas_: if you're afraid of a spyware/adware on windows, you should just switch to windows install adobe acrobat reader? if you're on windows? jrib: I just want to install it. I don't care about spyware or viruses thomas_: then there is no malware/viruses for you jrib: ok thanks I am using ubuntu 12.04.How can i change language of ubuntu?
