3DS Max is a professional 3D computer graphics rendering software package. Developed and marketed by MAXON Computer, Inc., 3DS Max is used for a wide range of purposes, including architectural, industrial, and film production. View of the AutoCAD drawing window All of these types of software are similar in that they are used to create drawings and graphics, and work in a similar manner. Most of these software packages include a free trial to try the program out. Many of these software programs are also compatible with other CAD software. If a software package does not offer trial versions, some CAD users purchase the package for the purpose of trial. Others simply rent the package for a limited time and then return the software if it is not used. Before the digital revolution, CAD packages were used by the architecture, industrial, and construction industries. Many different types of CAD packages were available, and they varied widely. The most popular packages were aimed at construction projects. Other packages were designed for architects and engineers. Some CAD packages were designed for rapid 3D modeling, while others were more focused on drafting. Some CAD packages were designed for both engineering and design work, while others were designed only for specific purposes. When a new CAD package was introduced, other packages were often tested for compatibility with that new package. Many CAD users work in engineering, architecture, and construction. In the early 1980s, CAD software was very expensive, and CAD packages were made up of large numbers of separate packages. For instance, many packages were designed for only one particular CAD application. Each package would cost hundreds of dollars, and users needed to buy dozens of individual packages in order to make a CAD package that would do a variety of functions. Many CAD users work in the design industry. CAD software has played an important role in the development of many different types of products. Many architects use CAD software to create drawings of proposed designs. Engineers use CAD to create designs for new technologies and engineering projects. Designers use CAD for making rapid prototypes. In addition to the design industry, many other professions and industries also use CAD. An example of an architectural design drawing created using AutoCAD For purposes of this book, the type of CAD package used is not relevant. The key elements in a CAD package are the programmable features that are present. These features are often called user interfaces (UIs). These programmable features allow the user

Category:Computer-aided design software Category:Computer-aided design software for Windows Apple, Nokia and iPhone ads dominate the top 25 in TV ad spend - pknight ===== hkuo This is interesting data, but is highly misleading because it's focusing on overall advertising spend and not the advertiser's relative spending on Apple vs Nokia vs the Android/Windows Phone. 1\ Apple is getting such a huge jump simply because of its brand recognition and brand loyalty among consumers. The brand awareness of the iPhone has to still be growing for Apple to command such a huge jump. 2\ Nokia is likely to be losing market share in light of the iPhone and Nokia's poor response to the crisis. ~~~ pknight The advertising spend could be relative to the size of the market as well. In the same way Google now account for much of the search market, is the iPhone app market almost as big as the general phone market? You're comparing apples to oranges in a way. Apple is the market leader in the mobile phone space, it wouldn't make much sense for Apple to have a lower advertising spend than the competition. ~~~ Travis It's also the size of the market for the general smartphone market. The iPhone is a large proportion of that. The other major smartphone manufacturers are probably losing market share relatively to Apple, but they're still doing fine. Nokia is losing market share from other non-smartphone phones (and is in big trouble in Finland right now, as a result). But as they drop off they'll have more money to spend on advertising. ~~~ pknight If you do the maths for the smartphone market it's almost exactly the same. The iPhone is 12% market share of the smartphone market, a comparison on the same lines of 'comparison of oranges and apples' would show the same proportion of spending too. And Nokia is losing less market share than Microsoft, so Nokia is less likely to be losing money from a loss in market share. But Nokia is also not the primary

Type in the following command at the prompt: 'CH3Enter.exe /command "C:\Program Files\Autodesk\AutoCAD LT 2011\AutoCAD.exe" /startup /product:AutoCADLT /language:ENU /key /usertype:design /exe /reason:Autodesk\rca /key:CH3Enter.exe' The 'CH3Enter' key is not present in the AutoCAD font or any the installed fonts on your PC. Therefore, you have to enter this command manually. After entering the command, click ok and then exit the program. You now have a copy of the AutoCAD font installed. Copy the font to the following directory: C:\Windows\Fonts Then you can either use the 'CH3Enter' key or select the 'CH3Enter' font when you are starting a project.

Identification of a new mouse mutant with vestigial vertebral column, subcutaneous edema, and eye coloboma. An autosomal recessive mutation (Visc) was found in a strain of laboratory mice of the C57BL/6 x 129 genetic background. Animals with this mutation have a large number of disorganized vertebrae, reduced body size, and gross defects in the eyes, ears, skull, and subcutaneous tissues. Normal numbers of ribs and lumbar and sacral vertebrae were present, but the sacral vertebrae were fused. A typical neck collar of cranial nerves V and VII, which are normally present, was absent. The cytoarchitecture of the cerebellum and hippocampus was abnormal. The animals were unable to stand and have restricted locomotion. However, a functional vestibular system was present and they did not show behavioral deficits in head impulse tests. Histologic examination of the spinal cord, cerebellum, and hippocampus revealed severe abnormalities in each of these structures, but the spinal cord appeared the most seriously affected. Other mutants described in the literature that have deficiencies in the formation of the neck (recurrent/anterior rachischisis and head tremor) have fewer vertebrae than do normal mice. This is the first reported case of a mutant that lacks most of the axial skeleton. The defect in formation of the vertebral column in Visc/Visc mice probably results from the abnormal proliferation of embryonic precursors, since the
