It would help to remember all of my deductions. Even a free one would be great. I am always trying to remember where I took a deduction that I don't think I received, and my IRS forms are all garbage. So that is why I am asking this question. Thanks for the reply! I had a look at the "free/trial" versions of software you mentioned, and they all seem to have similar limitations. Is one of those the answer? Do they even need to be online? I had assumed that perhaps it would work on my iPad in this case, or that it would detect the data on my (Windows 8.1) PC, but I am at a loss as to whether this is even doable, or requires an online database? There is a program called TurboTax Free that has a full version of the TurboTax product that doesn't have the required four credit cards. It is free to obtain but does have a warning label at the bottom of the screen that states "Not a complete eTax solution. You may be subject to additional tax penalties or interest charges. You can contact the IRS at the IRS.Gov website to view your current status and any changes." Also, it is not an app, and you must use a browser on your tablet.
