At that, this technique of degassing the blood is a great way of forcing the gas out of the blood, and then all this is transferred to the surrounding fluid, meaning into the lungs. It allows to restore the necessary fluid qualities to the blood, as well as bring oxygen back to the cells, which is almost impossible to do in any other way. This trick was presented in the video as well, with a more modern version of the idea. The original way of de-bubbling the blood used to have a very important disadvantage: there was a need to perform it rapidly. That's why the modern version of the trick is done using the vacuum pump. Our website, at the same time, presents multiple ways of blood purification: When the blood needs to be purified only temporarily, the method described above is sufficient. In such cases, there's a simpler
