Pages Startled by a thoughtless question, the mother of a seriously ill toddler smacks her kids upside the head and spansks her. It's a despicable act, yet one that continues to happen daily, across the globe, in one form or another. But now comes word that one of the mothers involved has been charged with assault, by the state of Illinois. There are laws against injuring a child in this manner, and prosecutors say they are committed to prosecuting those that violate them. I'm one of those people who will get angry every time I hear something like that, and yet, I can't help but wonder if I have ever really considered the reality of such a situation. For example, when my daughters get hurt it may well involve people who are upset about the accident, but more often than not they were just negligent. You put down a rug? Cracked a kid's head open? Stabbed a young girl with a stiletto heel? Laughed while walking down the sidewalk where your 2-year-old is toddling along? A kid might go crying to mom and dad, as they immediately call in an ambulance. And then you get the police at your door, you're handcuffed, and you're hauled off to jail. I still don't think that punishing someone who slaps a kid in the head should be a crime, but I know what it's like to be the parent of that kid. You think you have done everything you can in order to protect them from harm, and still, the little angel gets knifed in the head by some jerk who doesn't care. Then you get to deal with the cops who think that all you should have done is call the police and get a restraining order, instead of taking the man to jail. The cops are just looking out for you. You were just looking out for your kid. You have gotten insurance and you did the best you could. Now someone has slapped your kid in the head and you're talking about jail time. You really don't think that you should get jail time? Why should the man who knocks your kid on the head get a slap on the wrist? Are you expecting the adults who hurt kids to leave their homes? What if they don't? Where do you expect them to live? As much as you don't want to punish someone for slaps your kid in the head -

Quarles may also face increased scrutiny following news that the former chairman of the Federal Reserve, a top Trump economic adviser and a top Trump transition official all claimed to have loaned a company connected to Quarles money as the housing market fell in 2008. The former FC BAYRE, Inc., president of the company is Mark Rabourn, who was arrested in 2008 in connection with alleged loan-sharking and has been a top lieutenant of the House speaker since 2011. Quarles, however, was not under the spotlight as much until Politico raised questions about his connections to a businessman who was charged with loan-sharking and for his role in the failure of Rabourn's loan-sharking business FC BAYRE, Inc. Quarles has been an insider at the VA since he was appointed to the post in early 2014 by President Barack Obama. Quarles was a senior manager at the bank which was bought by JPM and is now called JPM Chase. He also reportedly served as chief council of the Romney 2012 campaign and was appointed as Chief Advisor to the Treasury under President Trump. Quarles was a mentor for a Tennessee man who was arrested in 2008 in connection with a loan-sharking ring. Rabourn, a Chattanooga, Tennessee businessman, was charged with kidnapping and charged with conspiracy to aid and abet loan-sharking as the FTC sued him and other members of his loan-sharking business FC BAYRE, Inc. According to a report by The Tennessean in July 2008, Rabourn was a "close associate" of Quarles at the time. In 2008, Rabourn was a lobbyist for FC BAYRE, Inc. and lobbyist
