1-abc.net Personal Addresses Crack With Product Key Download [2022-Latest]

1-abc.net Personal Address book is a small but solid address book that can help you organize contact data of friends, relatives, companies or customers. Nowadays, addresses or telephone numbers can be saved to data bases, to word processing files, to text files or can even be organized on your mobile phone or online. While the main focus of address data bases should still be the data itself, that it can be accessed very fast and that the way to it should not be overloaded with features that you never need, most possibilities to save your personal contact data unfortunately fail when you really check out these main questions. Isn't it annoying that most data base programs show you a splash screen for a few seconds before you can start to search just for a simple address? Doesn't it bore you to be asked after each single change if you want to save the data or not? And don't you get angry when you think about the high price you have to pay for a big office suite when you just want to find out the telephone number of a friend? We understand you, because we think the same way. So we decided to develop and release 1-abc.net Personal Addresses Crack Mac. Based on the famous SQLite structure this program organizes all your contact data. The program starts directly after you clicked the icon and anything you enter is saved automatically. Of course, even if we managed to develop a very easy to use program, it would be no 1-abc.net product, if it would not have some fantastic features too. You can search for single entries using wild cards in each part of it. You get a result table with all entries matching your search. You can sort the whole list or the filtered data after each column. You can protect the access to the program with a personal password. And you can decide by your own where the data base file is located and even network drives are possible so that 1-abc.net Personal Addresses can be installed on another computer than the data is saved. 1-abc.net Personal Addresses it could actually be a fun management tool to organize your personal addresses and contacts. 1-abc.net Personal Address book is a small but solid address book that can help you organize contact data of friends, relatives, companies or customers. What's New in the?

1-abc.net Personal Addresses is a compact but strong address manager that can help you organize contact data of friends, relatives, companies or customers. It offers a wizard like user interface and a database in the SQLite structure. Based on SQLite, you have a very powerful, fast and flexible data base engine. You can look for single addresses or fill out a lot of addresses at once. Automatic search for a single entry is supported. You can enter a filter. The program shows a result table with all single entries (no duplicates) from the search result. To filter on more then one column you have to scroll. You can enter a wildcard in each column and save/update your entries on every search. The program can be connected to a local or a network resource. It can show you local data sources. The program can be protected with a personal password and the database can be saved on a network drive. Each database entry can be customizable using tags. The user interface design could be fixed by setting the size, the colors, the font,... You have the possibility to import/export your database to other programs. The file format can be selected. The program does some compatibility tests. The program supports every operating system for every machine type. The installation is easy. The file itself is only around 100kB. Every file format can be selected. For each file format the program checks the installed drivers and allows you to select an installer. The database engine is very fast. It can even process more than 5000 entries per second. You can edit/search/edit your contacts directly in the program. The program changes the main window so that you can edit the data directly. You can print ascii character font from your addresses. The program should be able to run in fullscreen mode. The program is able to handle any resolution of any screen and of any machines. When the program does not find an entry by the entered text, it shows you a filter result. You can set a wildcard mask to filter on more then one column. You can search for addresses with a wildcard mask in each column and import/export results as txt files. You can export your data to the clipboard. Addresses can be searched using regular expressions. The program should be compatible with all major address formats. The program should be really small and it should run really fast
