Beneficial effects of Aconiti tuber in treatment of diabetic peripheral neuropathy: a systematic review and meta-analysis of clinical trials. Aconiti tuber is widely used for the treatment of painful diabetic peripheral neuropathy (DPN) in traditional Chinese medicine (TCM). However, the clinical evidence for the efficacy and safety of Aconiti tuber in the treatment of DPN is still limited. We undertook this meta-analysis to evaluate the efficacy and safety of Aconiti tuber in the treatment of DPN. We searched seven electronic databases (including the Cochrane Central Register of Controlled Trials, PubMed, Embase, CNKI, Wanfang database, the China Biology Medicine disc, and the VIP information retrieval system) for randomized controlled trials (RCTs) that evaluated the efficacy and safety of Aconiti tuber for the treatment of DPN. Quality of the included RCTs was assessed by the Jadad scale and the Cochrane risk of bias assessment tool. Meta-analysis was conducted by using Review Manager software. Eight RCTs involving 662 patients with DPN were included in this meta-analysis. The results of meta-analyses showed a significantly higher proportion of Aconiti tuber-treated patients than the placebo-treated patients with respect to the total effective rate (RR=1.42, 95%CI 1.07 to 1.88, P=0.01) and the total effective rate of primary outcome (RR=1.44, 95%CI 1.07 to 1.93, P=0.02). Compared with the placebo-treated group, the Aconiti tuber-treated group had lower proportions of treatment failure and adverse events. This meta-analysis suggested that Aconiti tuber had better efficacy in the treatment of painful DPN and was well tolerated. No evidence that adverse events occurred in Aconiti tuber-treated patients was found.Q: Is there a way to get a specific imageview to show up if a user taps a button in the android emulator So my app basically just has a few buttons on it and a few text fields. Hematological, biochemical and histopathological changes in rats induced by long-term treatment with benzidine and 4-chloronitrobenzene. In the long-term treatment study, benzidine and 4-chloronitrobenzene (4-CNB) were separately given to Wistar rats at 0.5 and 1.0 mg/kg/day by gavage. The half-time of blood clearance for 4-CNB was 14 days and for benzidine was 17 days. The histopathological and hematological findings, including elevation in erythrocyte and reticulocyte counts, decrease in hemoglobin, hematocrit and mean corpuscular hemoglobin, were detected in the 1.0 mg/kg treatment groups of both compounds. Treatment with 4-CNB also induced a decrease in the erythrocyte count and increase in the hematocrit and erythrocyte distribution width. On the basis of biochemical data, 4-CNB appeared to induce the aplastic anemia more drastically than benzidine. 4-CNB at 1.0 mg/kg also induced severe liver damage characterized by an extensive proliferation of bile canalicular epithelia, which is in accordance with a previous report. The lesions observed were consistent with cholangitis and cholangiohepatitis.Prevalence of insomnia symptoms and their influencing factors among general middle-aged and older Chinese adults: A cross-sectional study. Insomnia has been reported in a large proportion of the world population. However, studies about the prevalence of insomnia symptoms among Chinese adults are inadequate. The aim of the present study was to investigate the prevalence of insomnia symptoms and its influencing factors in a representative sample of older adults. A cross-sectional, random sample of 18,307 adults aged 50 years and older, including both those who owned mobile phones and those who did not (32.4%) was recruited. The prevalence of insomnia symptoms was 27.1% (95% confidence interval [CI] 25.7%-28.5%), and the prevalence of moderate to severe insomnia symptoms was 9.2% (95% CI 8.1%-10.3%). Significant sex differences were observed in the prevalence of insomnia symptoms, with females having a higher prevalence than males (28.4% vs 24.6%; P
